MILK DEALERS LACK SENSE OF HUMOR, OR ELSE FAIL TO GIVE PUBLIC ITS PROPER DUE

The milk dealers, it is evident, have no sense of humor, or else they do not credit the public of this section of the state with any such faculty.

They've been carrying on a "campaign of education" in the papers instructing people to "drink more milk" and setting forth cogent reasons for their advice.

Now the advice is good—Harry Ellington Brook to the contrary, notwithstanding. And the milk dealers can well afford to pay some one who knows the properties of milk and their values to the human system to write these logically correct and humanly appealing ads. They can well afford it because we pay them 16 cents a quart for the milk. We pay for running the ads in the papers, too, with that 16 cents a quart—and there is still a generous margin of profit for the milk dealers.

Truly a rich comedy situation; the milk dealers themselves instructing the public in the latest and best scientific ideas as to the values of milk as a food, its necessity in the proper nourishment of babies and nursing mothers, its desirability as an easily assimilable food for the sick—and then solemnly informing us that if we want this necessary food (and of course we do), we must pay from 25 per cent to 37½ per cent more than people of other sections are paying.

Page Reginald De Koven—no, wait; perhaps some native son or daughter of Glendale, some promising young student of harmony in the Glendale high school's music department may rise to the occasion and grasp this great opportunity to cover himself with glory by composing an opera bouffe with a neally new theme.

Not Wage-Fixing Basis

(By International News Service)

DENVER, Colo., June 13.—Fixing wages on the basis of the cost of living is "a violation of the whole philosophy in progress and civilization and furthermore, a violation of sound economic theory, and is utterly without logic or scientific support of any kind," the executive council of the American Federation of Labor declared today in its annual report.

The council says it isn't prepared to say what the basis should be and recommends that itself or a special committee be instructed to find out by research.

POST MARCHES WITH "OLD GLORY" FLYING

A large delegation from N. P. Banks Post, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief Corps, visited the Central Christian church Sunday morning by special invitation and occupied the center section of the auditorium. They marched in with "Old Glory" flying and took their designated places, then the choir and the audience sang America as a fitting welcome.

Rev. Cole's theme was "The Ensign of Liberty,' and he took as a text, Isaiah 11:12: "And He will give an ensign for the nations." After referring most touchingly to the toil and danger and saacrifice undergone by the heroes of '61 to '65, their exemplary lives since as citizens and the noble work in their behalf by the women of the Relief Corps, all for flag and country, the speaker held up Christ on the cross as the emblem of Christian liberty, as the flag is the symbol of national unity and the guaranty of protection at home and abroad, so is the cross the symbol of ransom from sin and protection from the evils of this world that damn men's souls.

The special music was very appropriate to the occasion and was beautifully rendered.

Just preceding this morning service and following the Bible school, the regular Children's day program was given. It was, necessarily, very brief, consisting of a song by Lyda Eubanks, chorus by the Juniors, song by the primary department and a depiction of religious rites in heathen lands as compared to the enlightened presentation of Christ's claims and the exemplification of the same in Christian lands.

There was no evening service on account of the baccalaureate exercises in the First Methodist church.

Destiny evens things up, after all. In the old days when you could take a night cap, you couldn't get out on the street and see knee caps.

Intentions Were Good

(By International News Service)

ALAMEDA, June 13.—Hereafter Principal W. G. Paden of Lincoln school, will be more specific. Recently, at the conclusion of a teachers' meeting, he announced that all teachers intending to marry should call at his office. A few minutes later the entire force waited upon him. "How come?" he demanded. "We all hope to marry some day." responded the spokeswoman. "But I meant only those who expect to marry this summer," he managed to gasp. "That's different," chorused the teachers as they filed out.

'GENTLEMAN BANDIT' ROY GARDNER TELLS OFFICERS THEY WILL HEAR FROM HIM

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—"You'll hear from me pretty soon. I'll pull a big job that everybody will hear about."

These were the parting words of Roy Gardner, "gentleman" bandit, to Deputy United States Marshal Thomas F. Mulhall and Federal Guard D. W. Rinckel as he made his spectacular escape early Saturday morning at Castle Rock, Wash.

The two officers arrived here today. They revealed that Gardner carried out the plan of escape in leisurely fashion. After covering Mulhall with a revolver he had carried sewed in his shirt and strapped to his abdomen Gardner cleverly extracted Rinckel's gun from its holster as he sought to aid Mulhall. The two officers were then taken back to the berth from the washroom and chained to the steampipes. Gardner placed the Oregon boot on Mulhall, but later removed it on Mulhall's pleas that it was hurting him. Probably 20 minutes elapsed, Mulhall said, before the train slowed up for Castle Rock and the two prisoners jumped off.

As he left the car Gardner extracted the cartridges from the revolver he had used to "stick up" the officers and tossed it back to them with the remark: "Here's a little souvenir for you boys."

KELSO, Wash., June 13. — Roy Gardner may be surrounded by posses, in a small swamp a mile and a half north of this city, Sheriff Hoggatt of Cowlitz county believes. Following the capture yesterday morning of Norris H. Pyron, Gardner's companion in their sensational escape from the officers while en route to McNeil's Island penitentiary, a man answering Gardner's description was seen to enter the swamp late in the afternoon.

Deputies were rushed from Castle Rock and thrown around the swamp, which is covered with thick undergrowth. The man hunters keep close watch all night and were to comb the thick brush early this morning. Pyron gave himself up after he had been covered by a rifle in the hands of W. A. Pratt of Kelso, a civilian member of a posse. He showed no sign

CITY TEACHERS CLUB HOLDS ITS FINAL SESSION

The Saturday holiday will probably be given in part by the City Teachers' Club to a rehearsal of its clever farce, "The Deestrick Skule," which it is to repeat Monday night at 8 o'clock in the tabernacle on Harvard and Orange streets for the benefit of the Colorado flood sufferers and also to give those who were disappointed in securing seats at the original performance a chance to see it.

The proceeds of the performances at the high school will be used to defray the expenses of the club's delegate to the National Educational association, which holds its annual convention this year in Des Moines, Iowa.

The last meeting of the club, which was very well attended, was held Friday afternoon at Intermediate. Miss Noble, the new president, was installed, and to theoutgoing president, Miss Clara Midcalf, who was the moving spirit in the founding of the organization, a handsome leather traveling bag was presented in appreciation of her efficient service for the club in the past two years.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT WEST GLENDALE METHODIST CHURCH

The West Glendale Methodist church was beautifully decorated for the Children's day exercises which took place yesterday. John Camphouse who presided over the program, said it was the most successful Children's day in the history of the church, and a crowd which completely filled the edifice was present to enjoy it. Following are the numbers:

Voluntary, pianist, Miss Ethel Wilson; song, "How Firm a Foundation," congregation; prayer, Rev. W. W. Cookman, pastor; responsive reading, congregation; Children's day welcome, Jenie Woodward, Eva May Roose and Marie Acton; song, "Beautiful the Hands," beginners; baptism of children, Rev. W. W. Cookman; recitation, "The Call," John Hammersley; solo, "When Roses Awake," Miss Donna Wilson; song, "A Little Child Shall Lead Them," Miss Helen Gould's class; exercise, "Happy Rose Girls," Miss Robinson's class; recitation, "The Frog's Advice," George Moore, jr.; solo, "O, Happy Hours," Miss Helen Ford; recitation, "Advice to Fathers," Victor Martin; recitation, "God Gives Us Glorious Summer," Beatrice Guenther; solo, "I Shall Look On His Face," Mr. Raymond Cleeland; recitation, "Juy," three children; recitation, "Christ's Helper," Mary Louise Moore; violin solo, "The Mount of the Holy Cross," Leslie Tronsier; recitation, "Be a Volunteer for Jesus," Miss Ruth Rames, duet, "Peek-a-boo," Richard and Marjorie Heminway; recitation, "A Good Rule," Odette Stevens; recitation, "Your Part," Lester Martin; offertory; graduates, diplomas, exhibition of the work; solo, "How Fair are the Lilies," Miss Sarah Hommer;; song, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," congregation.

NEW SILVER TENNIS CUP

The handsome new silver tennis cup which has been added to the permanent trophies of Glendale high, was exhibited to the student body for the first time Friday morning. It was offered by the Spalding company for the championship in the Central Tennis League and was won by Tim Morgan, Andrew McDonald, Norman Begg and Wilbur Jones. The same team also won the pennant for the tennis championship of the Central League.

The school has also won the track and field pennant for the half-mile-relay in the 125-pound class in the Central League. Glendale high is the only school in the league that possesses two championship banners.

STREET DANCE FOR AMERICAN LEGION BOYS WAS BIG

In spite of the film of fog that veiled the normal brightness of our southern skies, and the consequent dampness in the air, Saturday evening's street dance at the corner of Brand and Broad for the benefit of the Glendale Post, American Legion, and its band, was well patronized and a great success. Good music furnished by the band would of itself draw a good crowd, and officers of the post estimate a probable return of about $100.

A highly important feature was the candy booth over which Mrs. Dru Nicoles and Miss Bullard, representing the Women's Auxiliary, presided. There 50 pounds of home-made candy which had been made and donated by teachers in the Telephone school in Los Angeles, who have been the good friends and patrons of the post ever since it was organized. The candy disappeared like dew before the sun and netted the post about $35. These kind friends also gave themselves with their gift for they were present to join in the fun.

LATIN STUDENTS TREAT TEACHER

A very interesting exhibit was on display the latter part of the week in the bungalow used by the Latin class taught by Miss Isabel Stevens, whose appreciative students connived with the secretaries in the office to have her summoned to Mr. Moyse's sanctum Friday afternoon, and one her return she found a treat of ice cream, cake and candy which the pupils had arranged in her absence and which Mr. Moyse was invited to share. Students then declared they had come, like Marc Antony, "to bury Caesar, not to praise him," and so they were permitted to inter him in effigy in the front yard of the bungalow which the class calls home and to mark his grave with the myrtle of remembrance.

Through the inspiration of Miss Stevens the members of the class have visualized the things they have been studying about Rome and Roman history in a series of interesting exhibits. Several have reproduced a typical home of that period as described in the writings of that time Boys of the class who are handy with tools made a reproduction of a bridge across the Rhine, a catapult, a litter, and one of the movable towers used by Caesar's soldiers in war. There were dolls arrayed in Roman costume, and many other interesting things.

MAY LOSE MONEY BUT WILL WORK FOR LOWER MILK PRICE

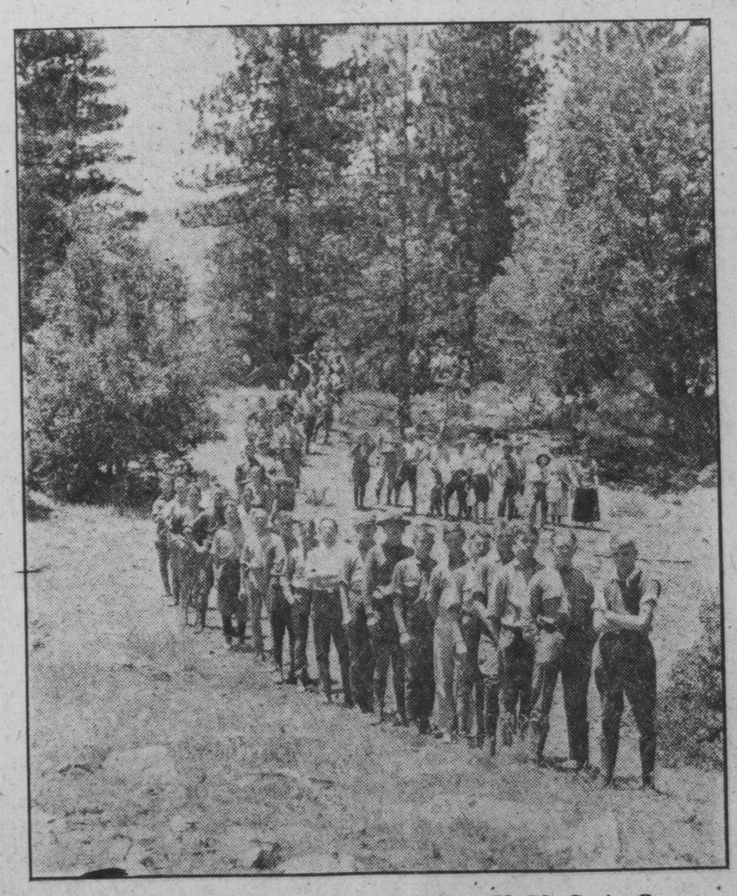
Although the Daily Press has been threatened with a loss of advertising on account of its fight on the exorbitant price of milk in this city, the searchlight of publicity will be kept on the facts until dealers here bring their prices down.

The most convincing proof of the justice of the position taken by the Daily Press in this matter has been furnished by statements made this morning in this office by a local creamery owner, who came in to protest the stand taken by this paper.

One of his statements was that the association had decided to lower the price just before the grand jury investigation, but that now the organization had decided to await the outcome of this inquiry. In other words, the milk dealers admit that their prices are too high but have decided they will not reduce them unless they are compelled to do so.

The policy of the Glendale Daily Press is to get back of every movement for the best interests of the people of Glendale, and in consonance with this policy, the paper will continue its campaign of facts on the milk situation.

ALLURING DESCRIPTION OF LIFE AT PINE FLATS GIVEN BY AN AUTHORITY ON SUBJECT



Boys lining up for dinner at Pine Flats Y. M. C. A. Camp

As the evening shadows deepen beneath the pines and the last rays of the setting sun tint the peakss of Mt. Islip and Mr. Hawkins, the camp fire is lighted in the bowl of a small natural amphitheater and the boys gather around the circle for the closing part of the day's program.

The folding organ is unlimbered and to its wheezy accompaniment, "Smiles," "Whoopelala," "Katy" and other old favorites are mangled. Excess steam is vented in "Goo-gitchy-pa-wa," "Skyrocket" and other lung testers. Tent No. 13 furnishes a creditable one-spasm dramatic, some of the fellows surprising themselves that they can do so well before a crowd. A blast from the "Camp Blizzard Daily" airs all the shortcomings and goings of any brother who may have slipped from the straight and narrow during the day.

Led by the soft strains of the organ, "Suwanee River," "Long, Long Trail," and other melodies that remind of the home folks, mother, and the big, clean, wholesome things of life, are quietly sung. After the echoes of "I Love to Tell the Story" or "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning" have died away, by the light of the glowing embers one of the leaders of secretaries suggests a few helpful ideas on "making good" or "playing square."

It is the most logical and natural procedure that the leader should close by thanking Him who has made possible all the glorious opportunities of life. Quietly, by the winking flashlights, blankets are unrolled and entered, the old moon smiles from over the top of Mt. Hawkins, and it is the end of another perfect day.

MRS. MATTISON B. JONES MAKES ADDRESS FOR MUSIC CLUB SECTION MEETING

Covers were laid for about 40 at the altogether delightful luncheon at the White Inn, with which the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club closed its season today.

Pink roses graced the pretty tables and furnished the keynote of color. Mrs. C. L. Marlenee, curator of the section, presided with her customary grace, and a very nice though brief musical program was given by members of the Nevin quartet, consisting of Mmes. Helen Graham Cole, first soprano; Mrs. Frank Arnold, second soprano; Mrs. A. M. Draper, first alto; Mrs. C. A. Parker, second alto, and Mrs. L. N. Hagood, accompanist. Their repertoire included "At Twilight" (Nevin); "The Four-Leaf Clover" (Coombs); "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes" (Nevin), and "The Rosary" (Nevin).

Mrs. Parker also gave a solo number, "I Love and the World is Mine" (Manney).

Mrs. Bessie Bartlett Frankel and Mrs. Gates, of Hollywood, were to have been guests and speakers, but were unable to be present. Letters of greeting from them were read, and then Mrs. Mattison B. Jones was called upon and gave a talk on "Musical America."

"To effect a musical America," she said, "we must first of all have an appreciation of music by the people of America. We have a great many musicians but not enough musical appreciation. To develop appreciation, we must, as Mr. Sadman said, have our children begin at the beginning and learn to know good music and to know our American composers. The schools are accomplishing splendid things along this line but they reach only the children, and all the people who have grown up and who have not had these advantages must be reached also. The great work to be done is to make homes where good music will be appreciated. If we push our efforts in the right way, a love for good music will be inspired in childhood that will continue through life.

"The victrola has been a wonderful agency in building up musical appreciation, for it is far better to hear an interpretation of good music by an artist than to listen to a faulty interpretation from a poor musician. The reproducing piano has also been a great aid, becauses it reproduces orchestral effects which the records cannot do.

"If we can get a national school of music through the passage of the bill that the Federation of Music is fostering, a school where talented pupils may be helped to become professionals, we may look forward confidently to becoming a musical nation. The Federation of Music Clubs is doing a great work in assisting and encouraging talented pupils, but its accomplishments are small in comparison with what a national school could do, which would not only provide the instruction needed but give prestige to its graduates, i. e., give them an immediate standing in the musical world."

BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS ATTRACTS GREAT AUDIENCE, TOPIC 'REAL PRIZES OF LIFE'

The magnificent audience that filled every nook and corner of the big First Methodist church, Sunday evening, for the baccalaureate service was a fine tribute to the class graduating from Glendale high and must have been an inspiration to the choir which provided a fine musical program for the occasion and to Rev. E. E. Ford, who made the address. The front part of the center section of the main auditorium was reserved for the members of the graduating class who were seated together.

Long before 7:30, the hour named for the service to begin, every seat in the auditorium was filled and throngs were ascending to the gallery where the majority found places on the steps as there were not chairs enough to seat the multitude.

The order of the service was as follows:

Prelude—"Caprice" ..... Matthews
Doxology (congregation standing)
Invocation—Rev. W. W. Cookman.
Hymn 106.
Anthem—"The Heavens are Telling" ..... Haydn.
Scripture Lesson—Rev. C. M. Calderwood.
Prayer—Rev. O. P. Rider.
Anthem—"Hear, O My People"...Buck.
Obligato, Mrs. Peart.
Hymn 210.
Baccalaureate Sermon—Rev. E. E. Ford.
Quartet—"I Am Alpha and Omega" ..... Stainer.
Miss Isgrig, Miss Wainwright, Mr. Kuehny, Mr. Haines.
Benediction—Rev. W. E. Edmonds.

For his text Rev. Ford selected a portion of the third chapter of Philippians which had been read by Rev. Calderwood, viz.: "Forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forth unto those things which are before I press forward toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

The speaker welcomed the class. He congratulated them and their teachers, quoting Emerson's declaration that to train the youth of the land is more important than leading armies.

It was a thoughtful sermon which set before the young people he was addressing their obligations to society and the great prize to be won at the end, the "well done" of the Master. Said he:

"This is commencement week. I am sure after your years of hard work you have the feeling in your hearts that this is not the commencement but the ending. But if you have not already learned that life is made up of beginnings and endings, you will learn it soon. There is nothing more important than ending except it be beginning. We are all the time beginning that we may end and begin

J. W. PEARSON FINDS ACTIVE DEMAND FOR REALTY

James W. Pearson reports a number or recent sales, including the following:

A lot on Louise near Broadway for Mrs. Wells of Florida to J. B. Gilkerson, who has bought for investment.

Lot on Maryland near Mountain street for Harriet P. Huff of Long Beach to Harry A. Michel, who will improve it with a residence.

Lot on Brand boulevard near Mountain street for C. J. Dudley of Los Angeles to James W. Gibson, son of Mrs. Dora Gibson. He and his mother own a lot on Maryland just back of this latest purchase on which they are building a five-room bungalow.

Five-room bungalow at 449 Salem street, for Marie Williams of Los Angeles to William H. Loucks of this city, who is now living on East California. He intends to occupy this house as a residence.

NOVEL GLENDALE RESIDENCE BUILT

One of the most interesting homes from a construction standpoint is the recently completed residence of Joe Fortunato, on North Isabel street. Mr. Fortunato has made lavish use of his talents as a tile setter, with the result that his home presents many new and original features in this respect.

The kitchen and bathroom are models of the tile setter's art. In the former, the construction is almost entirely of tile. Door and window casing, baseboard, sink, drain board and even the hood above the gas range are constructed of tile. The floor of the kitchen is of interlocking rubber tile in mosaic design.

The bathroom contains a sunken tub of the most modern pattern and is constructed entirely, floors, wainscoting, and bathroom fixtures, of pink and white tile, as is the enclosed shower. Recessed soap receptacles are let into the walls and are very unique in design. A white enamel toilet and square pedestal lavatory complete the equipment of this room.

The living room is adorned with a massive fireplace with pilasters supporting a heavy double coping, all constructed of the "Bachelor" tile, with hearth to match. The electric fixtures of this room were specially burnished to match with the colors in the mantel.

Soft blue and gray tones predominate throughout the house and all door and cabinet hardware are of the glass knob variety. The dining room is furnished in heavy black walnut. A novel feature of this residence is the combination of kitchen and breakfast room.

In its entirety, the house is one of the most modern in the city of Glendale.

A BIG BITE FOR A LITTLE MITE—PRESS CLASSIFIED COLUMNS

EXCEPTIONAL WORK PERFORMED BY STUDENTS

The past week at Glendale high has been a kind of reception week, during which parents and friends of the school have been invited to come and see what students have been doing this year, and many have availed themselves of the opportunity.

One place of special interest to men who have a knowledge of mechanics and mechanical drawing, is the building in which the department of mechanical arts is housed, where Arthur R. Oliver, George O. Lockwood, Charles H. Wright and Morgan N. Smith have been instructing young men of the school along the lines named. The work displayed, which is all a part of the regular course, has been an eye-opener to many visitors and an explanation of why boys from the school have been able in their vacation leisure to go to the Moreland factory and earn 50 cents an hour instead of taking up the tasks assigned to unskilled labor. Even if the students never use their skill in practical work, the discipline and training in exactitude of eye and hand will be of inestimable worth; for they are required to produce in steel in their shop work the patterns indicated by the blue prints from the mechanical drawings made in the department upstairs, and they must not be made approximately but exactly to the minute fraction of an inch. A boy who might fit himself for surgical work would find such training of eye and hand of the greatest advantage. Upon the table where the tools were displayed were to be found some very nice pieces of work which had been turned out by boys—plumb bobs, clamps of various sorts, machinists' tools, a jackscrew made from a rough casting which was a wonderful piece of work, and also a plate for a milling machine which was required to be absolutely square, its surface perfectly planed and true. A bench drill which is an even more ambitious piece of work and which will become a part of the regular tool equipment of the shop, is nearly completed and also a gas engine. Both of these products will be finished by the time school closes and will show the practical training the boys are receiving.

As in other departments of the school, there is a great need of more room. Courses in auto construction and repair have proven exceedingly popular, but many would-be students had to be turned away because there were not enough teachers to handle all the classes that the full enrollment would demand and also because of lack of room in which to work. The instructors are hoping some arrangement will be made to provide separate quarters for the auto shop and thus relieve congestion.

No less interesting is the forge department where boys learn the fundamentals of metal work with iron and are then advanced to work in steel.

The drafting department upstairs, where mechanical drawing is taught, has drawn many visitors, some professionals coming from Los Angeles to view the exhibit of which they had heard great things. While they gave constructive criticism, they expressed astonishment at the high class of work comparatively young students are turning out and Mr. Oliver has reason to be proud of the showing. The fine cooperation between this branch and the shop is one of the important features of the course.

Still They Move

The following changes of addresses in Glendale were noted Saturday, June 11: E. D. Wolbach from 373 Myrtle to 919 Orange Grove; G. C. Whittle, 2141 Kenneth road to 600 North Louise; B. C. Glasscock, 1212 South Maryland to 360 West Elk; B. H. Walrond, 441 West Broadway; W. E. Moody to 202 East Wilson; H. A. Proctor to 463 Salem; J. P. Bowling to 208 South Jackson; M. P. Tinkler to 214-A East Broadway.

The following new buildings are nearing completion: W. E. Scott, 1114 Boynton; B. H. Vreenegor, 428 Myrtle; C. R. Heinmiller, 616 North Adams; F. A. Archer, 1332 South San Fernando; M. H. Torney, 218 West Doran; Shirley Moffitt, 336 West Cerritos.

SUNDAY CLOSING

Monday evening, 7:45, in the hall over Glendale branch library (Tropico city hall), there will be an open meeting of the Good Government League. The speaker of the evening will be Rev. W. F. Martin, associate editor of the Liberty Magazine, who will give an enlightening exposition of the national movement on foot seeking Sunday closing and other religious legislation.—Advertisement.

BIG JOBS ON WATER SYSTEM NEARING COMPLETION

Engineer Lynch, who is in charge of the improvements in the water system, reports that the lining of the big reservoir on Glendale avenue will be finished about the first of July and will be ready for water to be turned in about the first of August. The 30-inch pipe line has been laid and is about ready for connection. After the actual construction on the reservoir is completed, the top must be made and the reservoir fenced.

The Vine avenue reservoir is about half cemented and pump and motor will soon be up. The big pumping plant on San Fernando road was hung up for a delayed motor and some other things, but that will soon be completed and in operation by the first of July. This will materially relieve the water system in our city because the big pump will have enough capacity to get water into the small reservoirs whenever needed.

In his verbal report to the board of trustees last Thursday evening, Mr. Lynch paid a high tribute to the men of the public service department, who have been doing some of the work on these jobs. He declared they did better work and did it for less money than the men employed by the contractors.

HERE IN INTEREST OF REALTY MEN

Alfred Dalton, deputy real estate commissioner, was in Glendale Saturday afternoon, calling on some of the realty men and incidentally placing on sale copies of his song "Out in California." This work depicts on the title page all the wonders of the state, which are referred to in the words of the song. The Palace Grand theater will produce this song with slides and orchestration on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The song can be had at the music stores.

Mr. Dalton has just completed an 18 months' tour of the state in the interests of the realty men, visiting every town and city from the Oregon to the Mexican line. He spoke of the great demand for properties during the year 1920 and predicts an even greater demand just as soon as conditions become more settled. He says that within the next 25 years California will be the most important state in the union politically, and in population and wealth as we have here everything that may be found in all the world, and the best highways on earth over which to get to all sections of the state.

TAKE DRASTIC STEPS TO STOP THIEVING IN SILESIA

(By International News Service)

KATTOWITZ, Silesia, June 13.—Drastic steps have been taken by leaders of Polish insurgents to prevent plundering. A young German was captured near this city yesterday and was beaten to death by the Poles.

The food situation in the industrial district near here is serious. There is no fresh meat, no beer can be secured, and babies are dying for want of milk. Because of coal shortage lights are out at 8 o'clock at night.

The number of Poles has increased during the last ten days. They are well armed and have planted machine guns along the roads.

The Poles assert they will not fire on the British, as they do not intend to fight the allies, but they declare they will not surrender their guns unless the Germans disarm first.

An official German report from the commander of the town of Hindenburg, which is garrisoned by the French, alleged severe maltreatment of 134 German refugees, four of whom may die. It has been filed with the inter-allied commission at Oppeln and sets forth that these and 400 others, although housed and promised protection, were removed by Poles.

Many of the refugees showed signs of having been shot or struck with guns, some having torn ears and broken noses.

Counter charges that the Germans practice whipping of Poles also have been made.

PLAN NO. 530

Most stately Colonial bungalow. This is a home of unique design that appeals to those desiring simplicity. A seven and a half foot porch occupies entire front of house, offering spacious porch space. In addition to the front entrance door, by means of the two double full length French doors, entrance may be effected into living and dining room.

The living room and dining room occupy entire front of the house, and are separated by colonade opening. These rooms should be finished to harmonize. The arrangement of the balance of the rooms is most convenient and attractive.

Photographs of this home, showing two floor plans are on display at our office.

Reflected Dreams

Looking into the mirror of the future you see visions of the home you are planning to build some day.

Now, while the ambition and desire is stirring strong within your heart, is the time to start converting those dreams into a home of your own.

Too many young folks make the mistake of sacrificing their good intentions and longing for a home to indulge in timely extravagances just to keep up with other foolish folks, thus are their earnings and savings dissipated and their future happiness sacrificed. The ability and wisdom to see ahead—to visualize the happiness and pride of owning your own home, is an accomplishment that overshadows any desire that you may have to travel the road of make believe with temporary questionable pleasures and extravagant expenditures.

Ten minutes of sober thought will exact from you a resolve to consult our photographic plan service and from it select that dream home and make it a reality before any more of your savings are converted into speculative pleasures.

$15,000 for Stolen Kiss

(By International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13.—Peter Koclanes, a candy store proprietor, advertised his "kisses" at pre-war prices, but Miss Florence Dooley, who went into the store to get some, wants $15,000 damages for the kind she got.

Miss Dooley asked for some "kisses," and Peter filled the order on the spot—the spot being Miss Dooley's lips. She didn't want the genuine kind, but the candy variety, and had him arrested. He was fined $100 and given a 30-day jail term.

Now she has filed a suit for damages for $15,000, alleging that she has suffered much humiliation and publicity as the result of the manner in which Koclanes filled the order.

Baccalaureate Address Attracts Great Audience

again. All life is beginning, ending, beginning, ending, the ending of the cradle, the beginning to walk, the ending of letters, the beginning to read, the ending of weakness, the beginning of strength, the ending of failure, the beginning of success, the ending of wrong, the beginning of right, the ending of death, the beginning of life.

"It is interesting to look back and see the things we have left by the roadside of life. Back there are the cradles, the bibs, the little shoes, back there the tops and marbles, the Teddy bears, the short dresses and the knee pants, back there the little children of yesterday. Where are they gone? They are here before us in this splendid class of young men and women. Progress is ever marked by the things that strew the path of yesterday. Paul, speaking to the church at Philippi said: 'I follow after that I may lay hold of that by which I am laid hold of Christ Jesus.' Christ has a plan for each life and Paul says, 'I want to help God in working out his plans for me.' Young people, the prayer of this great congregation is that you too, may lay hold of the things that God has laid hold of for you and help God in the process of working out His plans."

The preacher then referred to land marks, to the need for a definite goal ever kept in sight, and the need for a guide. "I beg you," said he, "to read the sign boards at the cross roads of life. Be not confused by the many lines, but read the sign that shows you the way to the place you are headed for. Be not confused by the hurrying throng or the applause from the grand stand. It is a wonderful thing to be born in this day of the world's history, but there will come better days because you young people have realized the value of these days.

"There was never a time in your lives when you stood at attention as you do in these days. You are listening to a myriad of voices calling. Money calls and says, 'though you may have to climb over human hearts never mind, get to me.' Pleasure sings her siren songs and invites you to her garden. Selfish ambition with trumpet note blares out: 'Every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost.' but I tell you the devil gets the foremost, not the hindmost.

But there are other calls, the sick to be cured, the downtrodden to be lifted up, the discouraged to be comforted. There is the call from Macedonia that is sounding loud. The world is waiting for you to answer that cry and say "Here am I."

"There are two great forces in the world, organizations and individuals and the greatest of these is the individual. The strength of the wolf is the pack and the strength of the pack is the wolf. The greatest factor in the world today is the man or the woman with clear brain, clear eye, clean heart, with sweet spirit and conviction to stand by what he or she believes. The great call today is not the call of money, not the call of pleasure, not the call for better laws, but the call for better men who dare stand for the right with the minority.

"Tonight you are leaving the realm of self and entering the great family of social life. We welcome you and you will have to learn to make sacrifices with a smile. Do not sacrifice principle but you might sacrifice that applause from the grand stand for the sake of the team. The adjustment is not easy. We do not always know just what to give and take, but remember there is some one besides yourself and you are living not an isolated life, but a family life.

"Be rich in the things that abide. Progress has ever been marked by control—control of air, of electricity, of explosives. The biggest control in the world is self control. Go on young people and win your master's degree but do not forget the mastery of self."

If you go into the selling game, study the successful salesmen and see if you would be able or willing to work as they do to be a success.

DEPARTMENT OF SCIENCE WILL MISS COOKMAN

He Is Looking Forward to a Larger Field in San Diego High School

Students in the department of general science at Glendale high are quite disappointed over Alfred Cookman's glitting to the high school at San Diego, not alone because they will lose a fine teacher who has invested the mysteries of science with interest of romance, but because he will take with him the fine collection of biological specimens of which pupils have had the benefit

He is very proud of what his students have done, especially the theses which the boys and girls who are graduating from that department have turned in at his request on the things that have most interested them in science. Not only are these booklets of interest because of the text, but also because of the manner in which they have been prepared. Nearly all are illustrated with drawings, many with water colors or crayons, and the originality and beauty of the covers is a great surprise, the more so because none of the competing students is in the art department. A prize is to be given for the most beautiful cover of the 105 handed in. They deal with birds, insects, sea life, wireless plants, flowers, animals, etc.

Mr. Cookman feels that apart from other considerations the department has been of great value in enabling many students to find themselves and discover a natural bent which will lead them to a vocation. Already some are considering studying medicine, others planning to become nurses, still others think of a career as laboratory experts and chemical engineers.

Students have been led from the lowest forms of life up to man, and Mr. Cookman's final lecture Friday, was on heredity and eugenics. In their laboratory work students have made over 170 tests during the year and filled an average of 200 pages in their note books on the life histories and morphology of plants and animals and their inter-relationships. They have covered in one year about four books on general science, vizz.: Botany, physiology, zoology and general science, and are qualified to enter any class in biology.

On July 23, Mr. Cookman will receive the Master of Science degree from the University of Southern California, based on his thesis on the spider problem of Southern California. He is sorry to leave Glendale, but it will not be so far raway that he cannot come back, frequently, and he thinks the larger field in the San Diego school will be to his advantage.

MAKE FLOWERS TO DEFRAY EXPENSES

In order to defray the expenses incident to the card party and dance at which they will be hostesses at the Ambassador hotel next Saturday, the young ladies of the Ramona Institute, Y. L. I., and their friends will hold several evening meetings this week to make organdy flowers to sell.

This evening they meet with Mrs. T. J. Keleher, 528 North Louise street; on Tuesday evening, with Miss Henrietta Smith; on Wednesday evening, with Mrs. E. L. Buechler, 916 North Central avenue, and on Thursday evening with Miss Finn, 218 East Garfield avenue.

The advance sale of tickets indicates that the big affair undertaken by these ambitious young women will be a great success socially, and that it will add a goodly sum to their fund for the purchase of a window in the new church.

Police Notes

Harry D. Chase of 538 North Louise street, reports that a team belonging to the Glendale Dairy ran a wagon into his car and badly damaged the front axle, at 12:30 a. m., yesterday. The driver was delivering milk at the time and the team was without a driver.

Leo Osborne of 2915 St. George street, reports that a Hupmobile touring car, driven by J. A. Merchant, ran into his Ford truck at San Fernando and Park, early Sunday morning. The engine had stopped on the truck and it was standing in the middle of the street without lights, until they could get it to the curb. A boy, who was trying to crank the truck was knocked under it and slightly injured.

You must create a desire to buy, and you must inspire confidence in your word for it, in your prospective customer.

SCHOOL PICNIC AT BROOKSIDE PARK

Children of Doran street school and mothers to the number of 175 enjoyed a delightful picnic at Brookside park, Saturday. The picnic part—the luncheon—was spread early for the children, viz., at 12 m., as the youngsters had their normal appetites with them and then some. After that the mothers had a more leisurely meal. The afternoon was devoted to games, swimming, etc., and everybody went home happy and tired. Besides the automobiles pressed into service, Mr. Connor took a load of children on his big truck which he operated with a care which won him many compliments from the mothers.

of fight and appeared badly frightened. He said Gardner had threatened to kill him if the pair were captured, so he left the mail train bandit and struck out alone.

"Come up out of there, and come with hands up," ordered Pratt when he discovered Pyron hiding behind a plot of grass.

"I'm not Gardner," tremulously replied Pyron.

"You might not be Gardner, but you look so much like his partner that I'm not taking any chances," said Pratt.

"I'm your man," declared the fugitive, as he crawled out with his hands held high above his head and his knees shaking.

Nelson Stack, a 19-year-old boy, had first discovered Pyron hiding in his father's barn. He noticed a scar on the hand of the man and felt confident it was Pyron. He called authorities and put them on Pyron's trail after he had left the Stack place.

Authorities believe the chances for Gardner's escape are slim and confidently expect his capture any minute. All avenues of escape are guarded and if he is in this vicinity it is said his only possible chance of getting away would be to go farther into the hills. Due to the scarcity of food this would be folly, and unless the train robber has slipped through the cordon of officers it is only a matter of time until he will be taken into custody again the officers declared.

ALBERT D. PEARCE DELIVERS ORATION

Albert D. Pearce, past exalted ruler of the Glendale Elks' lodge was the speaker at the Flag Day service which took place at the Elks' lodge in Redondo, Sunday afternoon, and delivered an oration which made a great impression upon his audience, according to reports from those who had the good fortune to attend. A fine musical program was also put on and the Elks' drill team participated in the exercises.

To Assemble Exhibit

Mrs. Ralph Meeker has consented to act as chairman of the committee on domestic science and art for the San Fernando fair and will soon begin the work of assembling a Glendale exhibit. Mrs. Charles Hutchinson to whom the chairmanship was assigned is unable to act because she is leaving for a camping trip about that time.

Palace Grand

The inimitable Jackie Coogan triumphs again on the screen in his latest motion picture, "Peck's Bad Boy," which opened at the Palace Grand theater yesterday to capacity crowds. It is released by Associated First National Pictures, Inc., and is the feature picture again today and also tomorrow.

The six-year-old youngster demonstrates in this latest production that he is a born actor and that he well merits the distinction of being starred in spite of his extreme youth.

As "Peck's Bad Boy," Jackie is, to the life, the michievous youngster who gets into a varied assortment of boyish scrapes. His ingenuous scheme to see the circus, his playfulness which results in the escape of a lion, the uproar he causes in church by introducing a novelty in the way of several hundred ants which take a liking to his father, and the part he plays in a love affair are some of the highlights in this delightfully refreshing photoplay. The subtleties, which were written by Irvin S. Cobb, are delicious in their humor, the photography is excellent, and the work of the entire cast admirable.

Glendale Theater

Besides Harry Carey in "The Wallop," a thrilling outdoor story of a western rover's struggle for life and love, the Glendale theater is offering tonight an attraction said to be the biggest show ever presented in Glendale. Features of this great show, which is given at regular Glendale theater prices, include Mme. Rose Hovick's spectacular juvenile revue, which comes here direct from a two weeks' run at the California theater in Los Angeles; these wonderfully brilliant children also made a hit at Grauman's and have been engaged for the Pantages circuit. Other big numbers on tonight's bill are Scotty Duncan, famous Pantages comedian; Arnold and Taylor, Orpheum circuit favorites; and Mark Nelson, the great juggler of the Pantages circuit.

Entertain With Picnic

Miss Saxton and Miss Harriet Bagg entertained friends with an auto trip and picnic to Spanish canyon, Sunday, her guests being Mrs. Phoebe Crump, her daughter, Miss Sue Crump, and Miss Isabel Tisdale. The ladies left Glendale in the morning and put in a long, pleasant day, returning late in the afternoon.

$200 a Minute

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 13.—David B. Chittenden, a $10,000-a-year executive, suffered mental anguish at the rate of $200 a minute while under arrest here recently.

He placed this value on his sufferings when he filed suit for $50,000 damages against his wife, Mrs. Nellie M. Chittenden, blaming her for his arrest. He was held four hours in the sheriff's office.

Mrs. Chittenden had previously brought suit for separate maintenance alleging her husband had become infatuated with an unnamed woman. A writ issued in her suit was given to deputy sheriffs to serve. They took Chittenden into custody and held him for four hours before he arranged bonds for the maintenance suit.

IDAHO MINING MAN BUYS HOME HERE

L. J. Groesbeck and wife, who bought the S. M. Collum residence property at 443 West Colorado, moved in Saturday. Mr. Groesbeck is a native of Michigan, and by the way, his brother, A. J. Groesbeck, is the present governor of that great state. His home before coming to Glendale was Wallace, Idaho, in the Coeur D'Alene mining district and he still has extensive mining interests there. He was one of the developers of a big tungsten mine near Mojave in 1916. Winter before last was spent in San Francisco and last winter he came to Coachello valley to look after date lands owned there by him and a brother living in Los Angeles. Hearing of Glendale he and his wife drove out here after looking around extensively in other suburbs. They looked at the beautiful Collum home, liked it and bought.

The Problem of Prayer

Sermon by Rev. W. E. Edmonds at Presbyterian Church

The subject of prayer touches very vitally every life. Prayer is not altogether supplication; it is also largely revelation. When John Knox, the Scotch reformer, was dying, his wife asked if she should read from the Word. "Yes, that chapter where I first cast anchor." And she read the 17th chapter of John. Through the ages John 17 has been the great Christian dependence. Go to it for your daily food. No profounder Scripture than this is to be found in all God's word. This is the great high-priestly prayer of our Lord, and there is none like it. It naturally falls into three parts: Christ's prayer for himself; for his disciples; for all subsequent believers; and this means, for me. Jesus Christ, the Son of the Highest, prayed for me. You are included in this, the greatest utterance of Jesus' life.

We studied faith. If faith lies at the base of all life in God, prayer is the capstone that completes. What is prayer? It is supplication, asking, but also it is revelation. In all true prayer vision has a large part. What you see, perceive, enters into what you pray. Vision of men lost calls for a Savior. It is part of the plan of God to reveal himself to the one praying. Do you ever see Jesus? Prayer is a converse, a communion. He has much to say, and we to learn. Giving and receiving are but a small part of the great program of prayer which can only be revealed through the habit of absolute aloneness with God.

Here is a warning: The believer who is living a worldly life has no right to expect anything from God. The carnal spirit cannot triumph in prayer. Worldly alliance is spiritual adultery.

In the last chapter of the epistle of James, Elijah is held up as an example of fervent prayer, whose faith won out in spite of all he could see. Lesson, do not allow your faith to get down to the level of your sight. The prayer of faith is answered on the plane of faith. Concerning united prayer: Christ says, "If two of you shall agree as touching any thing that they shall ask, it shall be done for them." Power of united supplication depends not on numbers but on real agreement. There is a danger of selfishness in our prayers—asking for our own gratification. When it comes to sickness of the body we have no need to run after a false teaching; we have God's own word for the body. There is a firm poise that comes when you are based on God.

Are your prayers of such a character that God can say "Amen" to them?

STRICKEN PUEBLO

There is universal relief in the later announcements from Pueblo indicating that the flood's toll is much less than at first estimated. The loss of 100 or more lives is tragic indeed, but the meager reports received at an early stage of the disaster, indicating a loss of 500 or more with the enormous property loss, would have been a very serious blow to the city.

People living in cities built upon high, level and well-drained sites find it difficult to grasp a situation where it would be possible for such damage to be wrought by floods. Although Pueblo has an elevation of 4665 feet above sea level, it lies in a large basin at the east of the foothills of the Rocky Mountains and directly at the confluence of the Arkansas and Fountain rivers. This location fits in well with Pueblo, the industrial center, but it proved disastrous in the flood catastrophe.

The city's business section is only a few feet above the Arkansas river, with the stream at normal stage, and danger from the flood has long threatened life and property, although protection is afforded by levees.

Called "the Pittsburgh of the West," Pueblo is the center of a section which derives great wealth from rich deposits of coal, limestone, oil, glass, sand and clay. The city has many smelters and factories, including the great Colorado Fuel and Iron Works. Six railroads have terminals there. In size Pueblo is second to Denver among Colorado cities and the estimated population is 60,000.

A typical industrial center, Pueblo's showiest building is the State Mineral Palace, noted for its architectural beauty, which contains a complete collection of Colorado's minerals. Other structures include a $1,000,000 court house, the McClelland public library and the state insane asylum.

Three hundred and thirty acres—inundated by the flood waters—stretch out in what is normally a beautiful public park and children's playgrounds. Pueblo's educational institutions include two modern high schools, Benedictine College, two academies, 18 grade schools and two business colleges.

Pueblo was founded by Mormons in 1846, but the few pioneer residents were massacred by Indians in 1854. The present city was laid out in 1859 and was chartered in 1873.

MAKING THE WORLD SAFE FOR MASCULINITY

The Literary Digest of recent date, through quotations from representative newspapers and college publications, presents both sides of a much discussed question: The moral tendency of the age, as evidence present day fashions in women's dress and dancing.

These quotations, most of them from articles written by men, are very interesting, showing as they do the ancient masculine genius for "passing the buck" to the female of the species. The editor of the Nebraska Awgwan speaks of "the Digest's attempt to make this world safe for masculinity." In nearly all the quoted opinions runs this same calm assumption that the chaste male is in danger from the shameless female, and that something must be done to protect him. It appears that something is being done. In more than a dozen states bills are before the legislatures which will standardize the length of women's skirts and the height of decolletage. So far so good. No one, however, seems to have thought of passing a bill compelling all men over the age of 16 to wear blinders.

There is one great difficulty, however, in this program to preserve the innocence of our men. How many of them really want the world made safe for masculinity? Do they not, in their secret souls, relish a world where danger greets them on every hand? If they, poor souls, really do pine in secret for the "good old-fashioned girl," in place of the perfumed, gauzy creature they pretend to like, they easily can get her. In the matter of women's dress and manners, as in everything else, the law of supply and demand is the ruling factor. The real reason why women wear "immodest" clothes and dance immodestly is because men seem to bid for it. No normal, fun-loving girl wants to be a wall flower. If she dresses and dances modestly nowadays, the men pay small attention to her. Virtue may be its own reward, but a young girl is hardly to be blamed for desiring some little attention. If men honestly want a different type of girl, let them demand her. The supply will follow. But, until then, why clutter up our legislatures with foolish bills?

WOMAN'S COZY CORNER

By JOSEPHINE FRANCE

Gaining a foothold again should be easier for the long skirt since it has been properly introduced in Washington society. At the Venezuela fete given recently at the Pan-American building by the minister of foreign relations for Venezuela in compliment to Secretary of State and Mrs. Charles E. Hughes, Mrs. Hughes wore a costume of silver gray satin which had the skirt full ankle length. It had a back panel which was split as it reached the bottom of the skirt and extended for about a quarter of a yard in train. The draped bodice had a square neckline and transparent sleeves which fell away just above the elbow in pointed bell effects. Tiny steel beads were used in embroidering the draperies of tulle and the ends of the train. She wore an elaborate necklace of pearls and diamonds and white glace kid gloves.

Silk models seem to be paramount in the skirt field just at present, blazer striped flannels and wool knit types running somewhat close behind. More and more has been noted of black on white washable novelty crepe. These skirts are nearly always of plain sports type.

The heavy crepes continue to be in the front ranks with no particular change in their demand except for a possible gradual increase. Crepe Marrette and Argentina crepe have been noted in plain boxed pleated models.

Two new Prunella designs hat claim attention are in Roman stripe design and the other in plain white stripe alternating with a plaid of black and white, the plaid of such design as to make the model, with its pleating, very striking.

Fashion writers predict that the Mexican note will be prominent in fall fashions, judging from the present indications in blouse treatment. Black applique and black and silver embroidery are seen on sleeves and panels. Crepe de chine is named as the most important fabric and white as the chief color with gray and beige next in favor. It is predicted that beige may become the most fashionable shade in the near future, as it is the predominating shade in the tailored blouses in the high necker styles.

Not so long ago, voile was practically favorite in hand-made blouses and also other lingerie styles, but it is said in many quarters that there is now an ever increasing demand for batiste blouses in all styles for which this material is appropriate, in both popular priced and higher priced styles. Handkerchief linen is more or less sporadic in popularity, many attractive styles having been shown in French import collections and some that were of domestic manufacture, but most of them somewhat high in price, comparatively speaking.

Embroidered organdie combined with taffeta is a new idea from France. The design is embroidered on organdie, which is given a black taffeta foundation to bring out the design.

Leather, felt, duvetyn and much embroidery, are items that are predicted for fall millinery. Leather in combination with fabric, especially duvetyn, will be good and felt will probably be one of the main items for fall wear. In Paris, small wings will be used in quantity and even tiny birds—as many as five birds on a hat. The old-fashioned tricorne shape will be brought back in Paris and, by the way, that sounds as if powdered hair may become popular. Also, the shape that is high at the back and low over the face will return. In colors, dark green seems to have a good chance to come to the front and the Bordeaux red, which is a Paris favorite, as well as shades of fuchsia and canary are talked about. Duvetyn is slated for a big run and some manufacturers will have as many as thirty-two shades in the range of colors. All sorts of embroidery will be in just as good demand as ever.

Series of Articles on Patents, Inventions, Etc.

By WILLIAM C. CUTLER of Glendale, California

Q. Interpretation of claims. How should the specifications and drawing be used to interpret a claim?

A. Reference may be made to them 1—to explain the claim; 2—to determine the limits of a claim; 3—but never to expand a claim.

Q. Generic Claim? What constitutes a—

A. One that is framed to cover a pioneer (first) invention in any art, is the generally accepted term.

Q. Generic strength. In the case of a Generic claim, to what is the inventor entitled?

A. All uses and advantages which belong to it.

Q. Evasion of Generic claim. If an invention is broad and "primary" (the first in the art), is it difficult for an infringer to evade or get around the claim, by changing the construction of the patented mechanism?

A. Yes, the patent is given a broad construction by the courts.

Q. Patent Office assistance. Does the patent office assist in securing strong claims?

A. No; on the contrary, it exercises great care to prevent claims being allowed stronger than those to which the inventor is entitled; but its attitude is in no wise hostile to the inventor.

Q. Minor improvement. Is the patentee held strictly to the construction mentioned in the claims in such a case?

A. Yes.

Q. Invention broader than claim. If the invention is actually broader than described in the "Claims" is the inventor benefited by this fact?

A. No. He is presumed in this case to have abandoned that which he has not claimed and presented it as a gift to the public.

Q. Limitation of Claim. Is a claim limited to the elements mentioned or the mechanical equivalents of the elements?

A. The equivalents.

Q. Equivalent? What is an—

A. "As a general definition a mechanical equivalent that may be properly substituted for an omitted mechanical element, device or agency, in a patented machine, is one that performs the same function by applying the same force to the same object through the same mode and means of application." "An equivalent is a device which performs the same functions as another, and in substantially the same way as by the thing of which it is alleged to be an equivalent." Court opinions.

Q. Unclaimed strength. What is the presumption if an inventor does not claim all he is entitled to?

A. That what is not claimed is old.

Q. Chief object of a claim. What is it?

A. "To particularize and limit the monopoly granted." "To establish the line of demarkation or boundary between the permissive and lawful use and the forbidden and unlawful use." Court opinions.

Q. Voluntary Claim Limitation. If the attorney agrees to the limitations insisted upon by the Patent Office, can he, in a suit, gain any advantage from the fact that he was entitled to broader claims notwithstanding the position taken by the patent office?

A. No.

Q. A Combination claim for a specific invention. Is it limited to the precise elements?

A. Yes.

GRAVE AND GAY

The Racket of a Switch Engine

A sufferer who lives close to a railroad yard in the suburbs wrote the following to the railroad company complaining about the racket made by a switch engine:

"Gentlemen: Why is it that your switch engine has to ding dong and fizz and spit and clang and bang and buzz and hiss and bell and wail and pant and rant and howl and yowl and grate and grind and puff and bump and click and clang and chug and moan and hoot and toot and crash and grunt and gasp and groan and whistle and wheeze and squawk and blow and jar and jerk and rasp and jingle and twang and clack and rumble and jangle and ring and clatter and yelp and howl and hum and snarl and puff and growl and thump and boom and clash and jolt and jostle and shake and screech and snort and snarl and slam and throb and crink and quiver and rumble and roar and rattle and yell and smoke and smell and shriek like hell all night long?"

The craze for metal trimmings is as much in evidence now as it was six months ago.

Fido's Tip

The men getting his hair cut noticed that the barber's dog, which was lying on the floor beside the chair, had his eyes fixed on his master at work. "Nice dog that," said the customer.

"He is, sir."

"He seems very fond of watching you cut hair."

"It isn't that sir," replied the barber. "You see, sometimes I make a mistake and snip off a little bit of customer's ear.

Cause for Illness.

"What's the matter, old top? You look sick."

"I've just undergone a serious operation."

"Appendicitis?"

"Worse than that. I had my allowance cut off."

Sympathy

Wifey—"The police won't let that blind peddler stand on the corner any more."

Hubby—"Poor man! That's the second time he's lost his site."

STUDIO NEWS AND GOSSIP

Dorothy Dalton In Gotham.

Clever Dorothy Dalton is on the way to New York City on a between picture jaunt. She is now permanently located at the Lasky studio in Hollywood as a Famous Player-Lasky star, and her trip to New York at this time is for the purpose of arranging her affairs there for the lengthy stay ahead of her here. She is accompanied by her father.

Colleen Moore in Mississippi

Colleen Moore has returned from a several months residence in New York City, where she played opposite John Barrymore in "The Lotus Eater." She was seriously considering two offers of stardom made by New York producers when she received a telegram from her present boss, Marshall Neilan. The message instructed her to report in Los Angeles at the earliest possible moment to take the leading woman's role in Oliver Morosco's forthcoming picture "Slippery McGee." As she was homesick for the sunshine of Hollywood, her friends and her pets, she refused to consider the offers of the Manhattanites and hurried to obey the call.

Clever May Collins

May Collins, now with Universal, is credited with having a clever press agent. It was recently announced that she and Charlie Chaplin had agreed to trot along in double harness. Charlie refused to "take the public into his confidence" and referred all inquiries to Miss Collins. Miss Collins, being shy, inferred that the engagement was premature and that "really Mr. Chaplin was the proper party to see." The sensation created by the announcement supplied thrills for about a week and then it was bruited about that Miss Collins had decided to become Mrs. Richard Dix. Mr. Dix is now a prominent and popular Goldwin player and only a few weeks ago he and Miss Collins were on the same pay-roll. Again Miss Collins declined to talk and when the man in the case was approached he chivalrously said: "Really, I cannot discuss the subject. Yes, I proposed to Miss Collins, but that is as far as the romance has traveled. Better ask Miss Collins about the denouement. Anyway, I am not engaged to marry Miss Collins and she is not engaged to marry me."

JUNIOR MUSIC CLUB PICNIC IN SANTA MONICA CANYON

About 25 members of the Junior Music club of Glendale enjoyed a picnic in Santa Monica Saturday. It was an entirely informal pleasure jaunt with a wienie roast and games and story-telling by way of diversions. It was arranged by Miss Veda Knapp, president of the club, and Miss Irene Miller, and several of the mothers of members were with the party.

MR. AND MRS. IMLER VISIT IN GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Imler came down from Bakersfield yesterday to attend the graduation exercises of the California School of Technology, of which Mr. Imler is a graduate.

Commencement exercises were held on the campus at 4 o'clock, the graduating class being the largest in the history of the school. A banquet at Vista Del Arroyo hotel followed, and Mr. Imler had the great pleasure of renewing acquaintance with former teachers and fellow-students.

Mr. Imler will return in a few days to Bakersfield, where he is connected with the Standard Oil company, but Mrs. Imler will be the guest of Mrs. Adelaide R. Imler, 336 West Park avenue, during the period of warm weather in Bakersfield.

HONOR DAUGHTER WITH DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Murphy, 421 North Brand boulevard, were hosts at a 6 o'clock dinner on Saturday evening, in honor of their daughters, Misses Edna and Vera Murphy.

Sweet peas in dainty pastel shades, commingled with fronds of maiden fern and garlands of smilax, adorned the table where the sumptuous four-course chicken dinner was served to Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Murphy, Misses Goldie Drake, Helen Green, Maud Soper, Lois Murphy, Ethel Murphy, Olive Murphy, Mr. Freeman, Mr. Mathews, the honor guests and the host and hostess.

Social games planned by the hostess formed the diversion of the evening hours.

Elks Are Victorious

The dyed-in-the-wool fans who turned out to witness the Elks-New Methods game yesterday were amply rewarded with a fast and exciting game of baseball. For six and one-half innings, neither team was able to advance beyond third base, due to the excellent support given the pitchers of both sides. The ice was broken in the seventh, when the Elks put one man across. A rally in the eighth put over two more, and with the game well in hand, the local boys settled down to their work. The ninth was featured by a spectacular batting rally by the visitors which netted them three runs and tied the score, but the locals, by a desperate effort, scored again in the tenth and ended the excitement.

The game was replete with double plays and hair line decisions. The diminutive "Chuck" Flanders got into the limelight through a series of one-hand catches, spearing them from the clouds.

The battery for the Glendale Elks was Bohn and Brown. The game was by far the best yet seen on the local grounds. Here's the glad tidings:

CHILDREN'S DAY AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Children's Day was celebrated at the Baptist church by a splendid program given by the children. The little girls of the primary department wore wreaths on their heads and each carried a pretty basket of flowers. The church was also beautifully decorated.

The program was as follows: Prayer, followed by the Lord's Prayer, song by congregation, piano solo by Dorothy Howard, presentation of diplomas to the mothers of the members of the Cradle Roll, song, "Children's Day," by the primary department, recitation by Marion Hoskins, exercise, Discontent, by the Katy-did class, duet, vocal, by Faith Tarling and Hazel Walters, the primary and beginners departments present "Miss Margaret and the Flowers": Rose, Lois Smart; Daisy, Ruth Reed; Sweet Pea, Jannette Echwendener; rest of department, different flowers.; song by the junior department, recitation by Marjorie Temple, with song by the Pollyanna class, song by Mrs. Hosking's class, song by the primary department, violin solo by Lucile Allen.

The church service followed immediately after the program, which took the place of the usual Sunday school lessons.

ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE PARTY

About 50 members of the entertainmemt committee of the Christian Endeavor convention gathered for a little party at the Christian church, Saturday night. Games were played and a general good time enjoyed the early part of the evening. Then refreshments were served and while these were being enjoyed Miss Ethel Preston, chairman of the committee, gave information about the canvass for places at which delegates can be entertained which is to be made next Saturday. About 125 canvassers have enrolled and 50 more are needed. It is hoped, she said that these will volunteer for service and report to Christian Endeavor headquarters on South Brand boulevard, or to Miss Preston herself. As nearly as can be estimated, accommodations will be needed for about 3000 visiting delegates.

Glass perfectly free from the gases producing minute bubbles can only be made in the vacuum furnace. The investigation at the University of Illinios has shown that all kinds of glasses in use contain dissolved gases varying in amount with the manufacturing processes, but the gas-free glass made in an improved vacuum furnace may be produced commercially.

LOT OF NEW JOKES, NEW PEP AND LOT OF ENTHUSIASM IN PLAY

Tonight the "Deestrick Skule" is to have its big, elaborate presentation at the Tabernacle at the corner of Harvard and Orange, with a lot of new jokes and a lot of new pep and enthusiasm.

Every person who saw this clever farce put on by the City Teachers' club can recommmend it to lovers of fun, especially the old timers who went to Deestrick Skule themselves. It is the last chance to see it and should not be missed.

The proceeds, it should be remembered, are to be a benefit for the Colorado Flood sufferers. An additional attraction will be furnished in the harp numbers which will be played between the acts by Mrs. Enona Hopkins who is giving her services. The cast of the play follows:

School Committee—Jonathan Longfellow, Mr. Whytock; Mrs. Billaker, Miss Chase; Mrs. Pry, Miss Hutchison.

Applicants—Miss Dashaway, Mrs. Carpenter; Miss Belinda Plunkett, Mrs. McReynolds; Miss Sally Simple, Mrs. Miner; Mr. Hezekiah Pendergrass, Mr. Horner.

Visitors—Mrs. Dipsey, Miss Crump; Miranda Dipsey, Mrs. Miner; Mrs. Snooks, Miss Tyler; Mrs. Honeysuckle, Mrs. Harwood.

Scholars—Matilda Billings, Mrs. Williams; Faithful Snooks, Mrs. Harwood; Samuel Snooks, Mr. Alvas; David Snooks, Mr. Wilkinson; Samantha Piper, Miss Jackson; Jerusha Dickson, Miss Sharpe; Susie Crowfoot, Sally Crowfoot, twins, Miss Fritch and Miss Church; Billy Crowfoot, Mr. Carpenter; Mehitable Jones, Mis Duffey; Obediah Buzzard, Mr. Rowley; Stephen Tucker, Mr. Bramble; Clorinda Geyser, Miss Ross; Ann Brown, Miss Lookabaugh; Buddy Brown, Mr. Miner; Ruth Ketchum, Miss Salstrom; Mike O'Flynn, Mr. White; Bobby O'Lee, Mr. Kuehney; Sim Dipsey, Mr. Blanford; Dolly Dimple, Mrs. Carpenter; Lily White, Miss Taylor; Rastus White, Mr. Alvas; Little Abe Honeysuckle, Mr. Kulp; Hannah Maria Honeysuckle, Maria Hannah Honeysuckle, twins, Miss McPherson and Miss Longley; Dorcas Doolittle, Miss Midcalf.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT TROPICO CHURCH

Children's Day at the Tropico Presbyterian church, yesterday morning, was observed by all departments of the Sunday school. The church auditorium was used, but even here there was not sufficient room and chairs had to be brought in to care for the late comers. It was perhaps one of the most interesting gatherings held in recent years.

Superintendent H. E. Fry was in charge of the exercises, assisted by S. H. Wilcox, associate superintendent. Mr. Wilcox had spent several Sundays in drilling the school in the special Children's Day songs, and these, accompanied by piano, violin and saxophone, were well rendered. The pastor baptized two children.

A host of little folks, with a well balanced variety of songs, recitations and other exercises, made a fine showing under the direction of the primary superintendent, Mrs. S. E. Brown and her assistants. The program of the primary department included:

Greeting, Rosemary Gilhuly; recitation, "Forget-Me-Not," Allison Goldsborough; recitation and song, a number of beginners; recitations, "Little Lips," Helen Wilcox; "What Summer Brings," Mary Hartzley; song, "Gather Them All for Jesus," primary department; recitation, "This Day Is Ours," Blanche Lovell; "Children's Day," Billy Van Etten; "Keep Sunny," Carolyn Ashton; "Cloud and Sunshine," Helen Moir and Peter Van Etten; exercises, "Loyal Soldiers," by 10 boys; "Flower Girls," by 14 girls.

At 7:30 tonight the officers and teachers of the Sunday school will have an important conference at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Van Etten, 331 El Bonito avenue. On Saturday afternoon, July 9, the school will hold its annual picnic at Brookside park, Pasadena.

An ad in our Classified columns today will bring business tomorrow.

MILITARY TRAINING IS A NECESSITY SAYS BARROWS

Tells Rotary Club Guests Military Drill Should Be Part of Education

In making an appeal for the National Guard as a necessary military organization upon which the people of California must depend as a country exposed to "stubborn human nature and stiff-necked nations," David P. Barrows, president of the University of California and Major in State Guard, today sounded a warning in an address before the Rotary Club at the Sacramento hotel.

Barrows, with some fifty other officers, headed by Adjutant General J. J. Boree, were guests at the weekly luncheon, which was turned into an intense patriotic meeting, which terminated with the singing of "America."

Considering Serious Possibility.

The speaker said the Guard was neither a social nor a political organization, but one that was seriously considering a very serious proposition—that of defending the state, in event of it being invaded by a foreign foe. He said it would be necessary for the citizenship to defend itself.

"Here on the Pacific coast," he said, "we will be powerful so long as we create the impression that while we are in favor of peace, we will make any sacrifice in behalf of justice.

"Confronted with human nature that is stubborn, and stiff-necked nations, the time may come when blind prejudice will not yield, as a result of which war must come. When diplomacy fails, we as a nation will fight and are prepared to fight."

Favors Compulsory Training.

Barrows said the several States in forming National Guard organizations never would be completely successful until state laws are passed making it compulsory for every young man of military age to take three years military training.

He said as an auxiliary to the educational system of this state there is nothing that could be of greater benefit to the young men.

"We are holding the coast line a frontier similar to those of pioneer days in the west," he concluded, "and will win in the event of another war as our boys did in the Argonne—by their strength and indifference to death."

ORGANIZE MODERN WOODMEN CAMP

Glendale Camp No. 12886 of the Modern Woodmen, came into being as one of Glendale's own, last Saturday night, with over 60 names of prominent members living in Glendale written on the charter. This new camp was organized by District Deputy A. P. Martinof Pasadena, assisted by Attorney Henry Molz of our city.

The Southern California Boosters' association and the drill team from Pasadena camp of the Woodmen, had charge of the initiatory work, and over 100 members of the society had a treat in witnessing the exemplification of the dramatic form of the ritual. This camp will hold its regular meetings in the I. O. O. F. hall on the second and fourth Fridays of each month. The following officers for the year 1921 were elected:

Consul, Otto M. Clinton; past consul, J. W. Jones; advisor, Jos. A. Rockwell; banker, A. T. McBeth; clerk, Henry Molz; escort, Robert L. Henisins; watchman, C. A. Bunting; sentry, W. B. Canaday; trustee, one year, G. F. Staub; trustee, two years, Geo. T. Paine; trustee, three years, David Carney; physicians, A. W. Teel and Harry C. Smith.

At the next regular meeting steps will be taken for the organizing of a drill team for the camp. It is expected that all old members of the society living in and near Glendale will transfer their memberships into this camp and become boosters for our home city, and it is predicted that this camp will have nearly 200 members by the end of the year.

LINCOLN HART TALKS TO TUESDAY CLUB

In addition to the musical program, the Tuesday Afternoon club will enjoy a talk at their regular meeting tomorrow afternoon in the Masonic Temple by Lincoln Hart, founder of the Ethical Motion Picture Society.

One of the matters of business to be transacted is the election of two additional members to the board of directors, as provided by a recent amendment to the by-laws.

If you do not like argument, do not try to be a salesman.

LAST SPORT DANCE OF SLICKERS' CLUB

The twenty-six Slickers of the Glendale high school and their friends, came together again at 8 o'clock Saturday evening at the Eagle Rock club house for their last sport dance this spring. About 70 couples were present and the music was furnished by Herb Myer's jazz orchestra.

As soon as the programs were given out, a grand rush was made by the numerous stags to get dances with the other fellows' girls.

The music proved to be unusually fine and the latest Ocean Park step soon reigned supreme. Orangeade was served, in place of the usual punch, by a little colored boy from Meeker's ranch. Dennison, with his various partners, went round and round on the center of the floor as usual. Thus the evening passed, only too fast.

At 12 o'clock, "Home, Sweet Home" was played and the tired but happy young couples journeyed forth to their homes. The evening was enjoyed very much and proved to be one of the most successful dances this year.

Following are the officers of the Slickers' club: Tom McNary, president; Arthur Campbell, vice-president; Philip Begue, secretary and treasurer.

HIGH SCHOOL BUDGET FOR YEAR

Principal George U. Moyse states that the budget for Glendale high cannot be worked out until July for a variety of reasons. From the state the school will get about twice as much as last year under the new allowance which provides for $30 per unit of average daily attendance instead of $15. The state allows $650 for each year of high school work maintained and as this school has a four-year course it will receive $2600. This sum is taken out of the $30 allowance per unit of average daily attendance. The county makes an allowance of $1000 for being a school and then an allotment of $58 per average daily allowance. That is what was allowed last year and the year before and County Superintendent Keppel has advised Mr. Moyse he may expect the same amount this year.

NEED NEW TEACHERS AT GLENDALE HIGH

J. Rhea Baker, head of the commercial department of Glendale high expects that two new teachers will be required next year in his department which has been steadily growing. One will be needed to take the place of Miss Goldthwait who is leaving to go to Berkeley. He would like to restore the class in salesmanship which was included in the course last year but dropped out this year, and additional classes in bookkeeping, spelling and penmanship will probably be needed. The commercial geography class has been doing fine work and a few weeks ago Mr. Baker assigned to each student in that class a subject for a thesis to be turned in not later than June 3 and to contain not fewer than 1500 words. He has been very much gratified with the returns. As it would be impossible to read all these manuscripts to the class, the students as a substitute have been called upon to make an oral report of them and this has been an additional benefit although the students have not always appreciated it. A number of the students have made very interesting talks and entirely forgot the embarrassment they expected to feel as speakers.

ANNIVERSARY OF DR. AND MRS. COLE

Let any slave to superstitious fear of the number "13" confer with Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church, if he would forever be free of the thralldom of this ancient superstition of the Gentiles.

Dr. and Mrs. Cole were married on June 13, 1906. Their 13th wedding anniversary fell on Friday, June 13th. The first meeting attended by Dr. Cole when he came to Glendale was attended by 13, as were several subsequent prayer meetings. Nowadays, however, the number in attendance at these meetings is a large multiple of 13, in fact, at some of them, it is probably represented by the square of 13—no 13 hoodoo there, certainly.

In celebration of the 15th wedding anniversary today, Dr. and Mrs. Cole made a trip to San Diego. They were accompanied by Miss Grace Utter and Willard Learned. The party will return tomorrow.

What Can You Sell?

"How can I increase my income?" is the burning question with hundreds of men today.

"How can I get to be my own boss?" has been your thought for a long time.

You must be able to read faces and attitudes and little unconscious gestures on the part of the one you sell to, and you must be able to think quickly just how to counteract the impulse against you.

Usually it occurs to you that you could sell something.

Have you ever tried to sell something?

You are bound to have presented objections to your proposition, so be prepared.
